August 2007

Dear Colleague:

An exciting learning experience that will expand student horizons and expose them to the latest in laser and light source sciences and the student registration fee is waived.

That is what the 28th Annual Conference of the American Society for Laser Medicine and Surgery (ASLMS) conference experience can be for your students and faculty.

I am writing to request your encouragement of student and faculty participation in the 2008 ASLMS Annual Conference at the Gaylord Palms™ Resort & Convention Center in Kissimmee, Florida, April 2-6, 2008.

"What a great opportunity to learn about the many applications of lasers" and "I met the most interesting people doing the most interesting things", are comments indicative of those made by student attendees.

The ASLMS conference is a world leader in presenting new laser medicine, surgery, and photomedicine techniques, protocols, technology and clinical applications. The conference attracts some of the best clinicians, researchers, and industrialists in the laser and light source sciences. ASLMS conferences are unique in the opportunities they provide these professionals to share their interests and expertise in the science of lasers and light source applications.

To encourage student attendance ASLMS is waiving the conference registration fee for all medical, graduate and undergraduate students, and residents and fellows in training.

ASLMS is also accepting student abstract submittals for presentation at the 2008 Annual Conference. Abstract submittals must be completed (online). In addition travel grants (up to $1,000 U.S. funds) are available for students whose abstracts and posters are accepted.

Visit the ASLMS Web site, aslms.org, go to the "Annual Conference" section, click on "Submit an Abstract" and complete the submission form. It's fast and easy and will be the beginning of a great experience.

A Call for Abstract flyer announcing the 2008 ASLMS Annual Conference is included with this invitation. Please post it for your students and faculty's reference.

Thank you in advance for assisting us with promoting this excellent education experience.

Sincerely,

E. Victor Ross, M.D.
